Calvert 22, London E2

This is the last week for this overview of one of contemporary Russia's most lyrical, yet incisive, chroniclers. Chernysheva is showing work from her black-and-white photographic series of ordinary Russians – metro attendants, security guards – coping with social change, watercolours depicting Moscow market traders caught between Soviet mores and advancing capitalism, and two videos inspired by the poetic melancholy of 19th-century painter Pavel Fedotov's "Encore, More Encore!"
